

Broadcast ownership rules should protect small and independent broadcasters from being overtaken by mega corporations. Ownership by large broadcasters should be limited in order to protect the freedom of speech and the true diversity of opinions in a democracy.